Partnered with Wizdom Music, moForte's flagship product, GeoShred, has sold 100k units (over 4 years) in 48 countries. GeoShred products have a rating of 4.8/5 with 1600 ratings. 40% of our customers are in India.

The moForte team includes industry insiders, mobile music innovator Jordan Rudess, keyboardist of the band Dream Theater, and world-renowned audio signal-processing expert, Dr. Julius O. Smith III of Stanford University and CCRMA. The moForte founders also cofounded Staccato Systems, a spin out from Stanford/CCRMA that was successfully sold to Analog Devices in 2001. Staccato was funded with $6M sold for $30M.

moForte, Inc Corporate Background

moForte, Inc. was incorporated in June of 2012. moForte has retained GCA Law Partners LLC of Mountain View, California for representation in corporate matters. In the spirit of Silicon Valley start-up companies, moForte is operating out of a garage in Mountain View, California with staff of Gregory Pat Scandalis (CTO/CEO), Nick Porcaro (Chief Scientist), Dr. Julius Smith of Stanford/CCRMA (part time founding consultant) and Jordan Rudess (publisher).

Product Expansion

Up until now, moForte's products have been targeted for mobile devices. Building on our success with mobile devices, we are expanding our products to higher revenue/margin platforms, including audio plugins for desktops, and plugins for own DSP hardware.

We have identified an under-served opportunity with a new generation of music makers who embrace mobile devices, and desktop music production tools. Initially moForte will offer these users a programmable, low latency DSP box for desktop or stand-alone stage applications. This box can be programmed from either a mobile device or computer.

A major music retailer has singled out desktop music products, as the fastest growing segment of the music creation market.

The Plan, First Year Sales

- Five moForte music creation products for mobile, desktop and moForte's Hardware
- Two 3rd party music creation products for moForte's Hardware
- Net $3M on $4.5M in sales.

Market

The electronics category of music creation products, which includes desktop music hardware and plugins, is estimated to be $3.8 billion dollar market worldwide.

Fund Raising

moForte is currently raising $3.5M dollars to operate for 2 years, with year one ($1.6M) for development and year two ($2M) for first year sales.
